Michaela Bergmeier

As an state certified alternative healer I have dedicated myself to the research of the Tibetan Energy Work for 17 years. Since then I am teaching this knowledge in courses and lectures.

I stand up for the authentic preservation of this precious method while integrating it into our current lifestyle.

The first weekend is intended to get to know each other and the TE®. At the end of this weekend you can decide whether you want to continue with the training.

The training is meant for people who are treading their luminous path, want to accompany other people with empathy and compassion, and who are ready to engage in deep inner processes.

Tibetan Energy Work

based on the system of the 24 inner lights

In the Tibetan Energy Work (TE®) we distinguish between 24 organs. Each of these can be addressed through points on the body.

During a treatment the client lies on a mat and the therapist touches the relevant points.

A merge of energetic systems is created. Stillness and connection facilitate a deep healing transformation.

All wisdom is contained in the human energy system.

Content of the Training:

- The 24 Organs
The main focus of the training lies on learning, understanding and experiencing these 24 inner energy sources with their topics, potentials, symptoms, treatment points and cascades.
- Origin and history of the method
- Diagnosis, treatment and exchange
- The 4 levels
- The 6 waves and 2 pyramids
- The 7 subtle bodies
- Treatments according to the 'left and right eye'
- Complementary organs and axes
- Equivalence of the organs and the vertebrae
- The Tibetan calendar of the 24 organs (Great and Small Chi Chai)
- Which organ is 'yours'
- Questions arising out of the practice
